Summary

This lecture introduces methods for visually presenting data to reveal patterns, trends, and relationships clearly. Students will learn to select and construct appropriate graphs, such as bar charts, histograms, pie charts, and line graphs, based on the type of data.